

Zach Blas is an artist, writer, and filmmaker whose practice contends with computational technologies, their industries, and the powers that constitute and animate them.